Aims

The aim of this module is to provide students with both the general and academic skills and language they need to successfully meet the communicative demands of their ongoing HE study.

It aims to explore a range of current issues, to prepare students culturally for life and study at LJMU and to introduce students to the academic culture of UK Higher Education and teaching in general.

Learning Outcomes

After completing the module the student should be able to:

- 1 Plan, produce and edit a piece of relevant comprehensible extended writing in English, using a wide range of grammatical structures, cohesive devices and academic vocabulary.
- 2 Quickly select, evaluate and critically respond to written texts and synthesise information from a variety of written academic sources into their work using appropriate academic conventions.
- 3 Give a competent and confident researched presentation, answer complex follow-up questions concisely, and adapt information from own and others' presentations to make strong contribution to subsequent seminar discussion.
- 4 Extract key and supporting information from extended academic listening texts, and take useful retrievable notes in order to summarise and respond to content.
- 5 Give evidence of adopting a wide range of academic and study skills, including the competent and consistent management of time and materials in order to meet deadlines, the use of reflection and self-direction in the process of improving output and developing skills, and the application of academic patterns of structure and organisation to their assessed work.

Learning Outcomes of Assessments

The assessment item list is assessed via the learning outcomes listed:

Extended piece of writing	1	5
Integrated skills exercise	2	4

Notes

This module aims to develop students' confidence and competence in applying English to HE study and to prepare them for the demands of study on their chosen academic programme. The initial focus will be the ability to recognize and construct both written and spoken arguments.

This will be an LJMU CPD award (Certificate of Professional Development). The teaching will be delivered by Study Group.

The International Office will be responsible for admitting students onto the programme. Students will have to fulfill the admissions criteria for their chosen undergraduate course and meet an IELTS requirement of at least 5.0 in each of the four skills (UK Border Agency requirement).
