Outline Syllabus

Practices of History teaches students the basic skills of historical research and provides an introduction to primary sources. The first half of the module will provide interactive primary source workshops that look at specific methods or theories of source analysis. This will be then put into practical use in the second half of the module with the chance to devise a group research project that uses primary research and collections. This will be supervised with a Project Manager – a staff member who can advise and guide students. The final project will be presented at an exhibition with students on Exploring History.
