Aims

This module aims to enable students to understand business problems issues, particularly at the strategic level. In the process they will acquire the skills and knowledge to formulate a business plan of sufficient robustness and rigour to be acceptable to business executives. Thus students will be exposed to and achieve insights into real-world business issues, which will be addressed with key academic theories and models to develop solutions that meets client needs.

Learning Outcomes

After completing the module the student should be able to:

- 1 Critically evaluate business issues and identify opportunities.
- 2 Critically analyse the issues involved in developing business solutions including ICT.
- 3 Identify the importance and relevance of practical business (including reference to business theories and models) solutions and the impact their introduction can have on a company.
- 4 Establish personal effectiveness as part of a consultancy team.
- 5 Develop and demonstrate business consultancy skills of active listening, presentations, influencing, and networking.
