Outline Syllabus

Outline the importance of different factors that affect the business creation (start-up) process and examine factors which inhibit or stifle creativity and innovation and ideas formation. In addition, the importance of modifying, refining and processing ideas over time will be explored.

Consider how to create and interpret an economic analysis of a particular market and sector using a variety of economic/ analytical frameworks such as SWOT/PESTLE

Outline the various fundamental resources encountered when starting a business. Explore and evaluate the various sources of capital an entrepreneurial venture might draw up on initially and as the venture develops.

Examine the steps required for researching, developing and designing business plans in relation to the business start-up process. Designing and writing business plan should be seen as the outcome of a careful research process and subsequent planning procedure.

Construction of a well researched and well presented business plan encompassing an executive summary, a market overview, marketing plan overview, key action and events, the management team, the organisation plan, financial / projections overview/, and the investment opportunity.

The business plan will be written with its intended audience in mind, it must address potential concerns. All claims and statements made in the business plan, apart from those which will be regarded as common knowledge by the planner and the plan's audience must be capable of independent verification.

Learning Activities

The module will be delivered as a series of seminars, lectures and tutorial workshops.

Students will present their responses to assigned tutorial and seminar questions based around current and up-to-date case studies and their working business plan.

There will be a series of Guest Speaker/s on topic such as:

Business Start Ups;

Local and national Entrepreneurs/Business;

Business Support professionals/Banks.

Notes

This module aims to equip learners with the economic tools to analyze and evaluate a business opportunity and have the knowledge and skills to construct a business plan which will stand up to an academic and professional audience
