Aims

To enable the student to study in depth a topic from within the field of tourism, leisure or hospitality.

Learning Outcomes

After completing the module the student should be able to:

- 1 Propose an investigation for future enquiry
- 2 Undertake a literature review and carry out an independent study and show an aptitude for the planning, design and execution of an enquiry, including selection and use of appropriate methods of investigation and presentation of results.

Learning Outcomes of Assessments

The assessment item list is assessed via the learning outcomes listed:

Proposal	1
Dissertation	2

Outline Syllabus

Prepare a proposal of the intended study, including a timetable. Undertake a literature search and/or design and present a methodology and primary data. Analyse data using technology where appropriate. Present the theoretical underpinning and results in a student-led seminar, and submit the written study.

Learning Activities

To engage in sustained independent and intensive study. Students will design and execute a research study, choosing appropriate research methods. The study will be completed through the individual work of students, supported by personal tutorials provided at regular intervals throughout the year. There will also be an introductory lecture at the beginning of the module

Notes

Examines an aspect of tourism, leisure or hospitality in detail as directed by the individual student with guidance from the tutor.
