Learning Activities

Teaching will be through interactive workshops that will facilitate discussion and cohort engagement.

In the early part of the module, the student will be introduced to external forms of assessment that will provide externally assessed indicators of the attributes and attitudes of the student. The purpose of this is to provide a basis for the exploration of the student's response to the demands that will be made upon them by a UK Higher Education institution. The module, therefore, will seek to provide an opportunity for the student to reflect on both their previous experience and their response to that and the expectations they now face.

The module will support the student's success by developing their skills in independent learning, criticality and academic practice. The purpose of this is to create knowledge that will assist students studies in other course modules.

The module necessitates a broad syllabus where much use will be made of directed study supported by the facilities of the careers service and the library. This approach will facilitate the development of students as independent learners.

The process leading to the completion of the portfolio will include reading, reflection and research. External tools, such as Belbin and psychological profiling software will be employed to assist students to reflect upon current skills, attributes and behaviours.

This will be incorporated into the workshop programme which will support the student throughout the process.

It is intended that part of the portfolio will be closely allied to the preferred field of employment. Through the portfolio and workshop, students will use the self-knowledge gained in the first part of the module to evaluate the needs of their chosen career path. Workshop sessions will seek to explore how the personal attributes, skills and knowledge are important in relation to both acquiring employment and developing a rewarding career.

The module will develop the detailed knowledge and competencies relevant to study at level 6 together with entry to and participation in the graduate labour market.
