Aims and Outcomes

Aims	The module affords learners the opportunity to further develop and consolidate their intellectual achievements, critical and research skills through advanced independent study. Students will identify a specific topic related to music, entertainment, theatre or event management and undertake significant desk research to examine a current issue. They will produce a paper which will review, analyse and critique existing research in order to identify gaps in the literature and to produce a framework for further study. This will provide the basis and justification for further practical research in the field.
