Aims

The aim of this module is to introduce students to a range of practical and theoretical models of leadership and management that are appropriate to a wide range of professional contexts. Students will be supported to analyse these theoretical underpinnings and carefully identify models and tools which fit with their personal and professional values whilst considering their impact on teams project and organisations. The module will contain a focus on interpersonal and supervisory relationships including practical experience of supervising others.

Learning Outcomes

After completing the module the student should be able to:

- 1 Critically analyse concepts of leadership and management and their role in project, team and organisational development.
- 2 Critically reflect on styles of leadership and management in the context of your own personal and professional values.
- 3 Critically review a range of supervision and performance management models and tools whilst considering your own personal and professional values.
- 4 Evaluate the importance of ethical and legal considerations within the role of leaders and managers.
- 5 Demonstrate skills and behaviours to conduct an effective supervision meeting

Learning Activities

Lectures

Students will receive approximately 15 hours of taught input focusing on the underpinning theory behind effective management and leadership. Explicit links will be made with the module assessments. Guest Lecturers and Speakers may be used to enhance learning.

Seminars & Workshops

Students will receive approximately 21 hours of seminars & workshops which will support their application of theory into a range of relevant professional contexts. Owing to the nature of Coursework 1: Group Role Play, a significant proportion of this time will be allocated to students to complete these activities.

Independent Study

Students are expected to undertake personal research into topic areas that have been stimulated from the lectures and seminars.

VLE support

This will provide links to academic websites and on-line journals, facilitate group discussion outside of the classroom, access to outline lecture notes and provide students with assessment details.

Notes

None.
